Electro Deposit Primer

EDP, is an electronically applied process in which metal parts are given an electric charge and immersed in an opposite charged paint solution. The electric current then attracts and secures the paint solution to the part to provide unparalleled coverage to the entire part including corners, edges and recessed areas. This provides an excellent rust resistant coating with an even and continuous film without pinholes over the entire surface. The superior quality of EDP can be used as is with its OEM style satin black finish or is the perfect base for powder coating or custom painting. EDP is also environmentally friendly as the electro coat produces little or no HAPS (Hazardous Air Pollutants) or VOCs (Volatile Organic Compounds) and is OSHA, ROHS and EPA compliant.

EMC Evolution Modular Cooling

This is the most extreme modular system available for any application. Our engineers have conducted extensive research to determine this is the optimum combination of size and volume for maximum cooling efficiency in extreme applications. These advanced cooling modules also include 7 separate 3/8-24" threaded bungs for attaching optional mounting bracket kits and hardware allowing the unique option of using this radiator as a traditional top and bottom tank design or the modern cross-flow design.

This is the most extreme modular system available for any application. Our engineers have conducted extensive research to determine this is the optimum combination of size and volume for maximum cooling efficiency in extreme applications. These advanced cooling modules also include 7 separate 3/8-24" threaded bungs for attaching optional mounting bracket kits and hardware allowing the unique option of using this radiator as a traditional top and bottom tank design or the modern cross-flow design.
